

HOMECOMING POSTPONED ONE WEEK

FRESHMAN HOLIDAY . . Spring cleaning takes place in the Architecture department in the middle of Fall—at least for the freshmen Architecture students it does. Freshmen Holiday this year found all new architect majors doing little odd bits of work around their department last "to spruce up the place a little." On the "chain gang" are Freshmen Dan Froehner, Rick Helm, Ron Miller, Jim Needy and Richard Anderson. (Crosby photo)

Flu Hits Santa Barbarans; Halts Football Contest

By Dave Kempf

Cal Poly's 50th anniversary of Homecoming has been moved ahead one week due to a cancellation of the Santa Barbara-Cal Poly football game plus a forecast of rain, according to Associate Dean of Activities, Dan Lawson. Nineteen members of the Santa Barbara team are bedridden this week forcing postponement of the grid contest. Plans are underway to reschedule the game for Thanksgiving day.

Homecoming festivities will be celebrated November 1 and 2 featuring a game between the Mustangs and San Jose State. The program will remain the same.

Queen Barbara Unland will reign over the two day celebration aided by her court, Nancy Krag, Deanna Larramendy, Jan Telford, and Helen Long. The queen will be crowned at the Homecoming ball Saturday night which will also include a special reception sponsored by Mat Pica Pl, features the Collegians from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Twenty-two floats, an ROTC color guard, the San Luis Obispo High School band and 40 member girls drill team highlight the colorful downtown parade Sat. Nov. 2 at 2 p.m. Grand Marshal of the parade is the Fred K. Southard family of Stockton. Mr. and Mrs. Southard and their four sons are all graduates of Cal Poly and have also been voted alumni of the year. The men all graduated as engineers while Mrs. Southard graduated from the Home Economics department.

The parade will assemble on the Safeway parking lot. It will proceed down Esch Street to Higuera, up Higuera to Nipomo, right on Monterey to Oso, left on Oso and disperse. Judges are Margaret McNeil, Women's Club official; Richard Slight, Title Insurance; Mayor Luckinsinger; Merle Carpenter, Hill's Stationery; and Stella Lewis, Poly alumnus.

A general Alumni Association meeting is scheduled for next Friday night including the board of directors and delegates from all sections. Herbert Peares, Los Angeles, a Douglas Aircraft engineer, will preside.

Following the bonfire rally next Friday night, students will retire to the gym where a short talent show precedes the Western Dance, sponsored by the Rodeo Club.

Saturday's events begin with a free horse show and rodeo in Bud

Collett arena. Open house in all departments will be held all morning with a special alumni luncheon at noon. A short pep rally follows the parade at the courthouse. An alumni dinner is slated for the South Cafeteria at 6.

Reserved seat tickets can be purchased by alumni in the registration line at a reduced rate. These will be for alumni only.

Program ceremonies will begin at 7:45 in Poly stadium. A special feature every year is the moment of silence just before the game when the grid fans remain quiet for a minute in honor of all those alumni not able to attend the festivities. Alumni all over the world are asked to think of Cal Poly at the same time.

The Homecoming ball in Crandall Gym and the special Alumni Dance at Carpenter's Hall will conclude this year's celebration marking the fiftieth anniversary of Homecoming on this campus.

Cowboys Compete Saturday in Rodeo

Bone-busting action will come to life Saturday when the world's roughest sport goes into the Bud Collett arena, announced Tom Brown, Rodeo Club president.

Starting at 8 A. M., the free show will feature barabank bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, team roping, girl's barrel race, and Brahma bull riding.

In conjunction with the rodeo, there is also a horse show. These events will be run throughout the morning, between the rodeo events. Horse show classes include trail horses, pleasure horses, hackamores class, stock horse class, and cutting horses. The cutting horses will be at the end of the show and promises to be a keen event. There will also be a class of calf roping horses. Here the horses will be judged on their performance during the calf roping event.

Everything is free for the event and visitors are urged to come out to watch.

READY AND WAITING . . . BUT NO PLACE TO GO. That's the predicament Homecoming Queen Barbara Unland, her royal court, and Mustang quartermaster Bobby Southard face. The flu-bum bit the Calucha football team, who was to encounter the Poly eleven, Saturday night. Hence, Homecoming festivities have been postponed one week. Nancy Krag, Helen Long, and Deanna Larramendy are pictured with the Old Cowhide. Trophy presented the winner of the Poly-UC, Santa Barbara college game. Not pictured is Princess Jan Telford.

SAC Committee Advises Manager Code Revision

By Martin Hickie

Student Affairs Council Tuesday night heard a special committee progress report recommending "the Graduate Manager's code be revised to include but not restricted to the following revisions:

1. The graduate manager shall sign all contracts regarding travel.
2. The graduate manager shall solicit at least three bids for any travel which is of a competitive nature."

The committee was appointed last week to investigate air travel contracts signed for the Mustang-New Mexico A & M football game, Sept. 28.

Don Roberts, making the report for flu-stricken chairman Jim Troxel, stated the committee had found it was precedence for the director of athletics and not the graduate manager to sign all travel contracts.

Rates Valid

Roberts also stated that during a phone call to the airline company, officials stated the increased rate charged the Mustangs was valid and in accordance with their rates filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board. The company also said the rate was the same for 44 or 50 passenger craft of the type chartered. The committee is awaiting written conformation from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The committee's progress report stated "there is information that Transocean Airlines also submitted bids for the flight" and that the "committee is awaiting copies of bids from this company which will confirm the information."

Final report and recommendations of the special committee are expected at next Tuesday's SAC meeting.

Campus Radio System

In other action before SAC the council appointed a standing committee to present a code for a campus radio system to the constitution and codes committee. The committee was instructed to make its report by the end of the winter quarter.

With hope of creating greater harmony and efficiency between SAC and the Finance Committee, SAC moved to invite members of the money-handling group to a joint, semi-formal meeting next Tuesday night at 8:30. Regular SAC meeting will be held at 8 p.m.

Campus Is Infested With "Ugly Men"

By Polly Gadsabout

Wanta have a good laugh? Take a look around you at any time during the day; in class (if you're lucky enough to have one in your class), just walking around campus, or maybe even in El Corral. They're all around and it's impossible not to recognize 'um.

They're the ugly men, natch. Who's the ugliest of them all? That's a personal opinion. It's going to be a close race this year cause the candidates are really gheastly looking. Ugly? Good grief!

In case you haven't looked on your Mat Pica Pl calendar, next week's midterms. Because that's the way the little ball bounces, El Mustang will not be published on Tuesday or Friday.

Music department will hold its annual banquet Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Edna Farm Center. This is one of the few times during the year when the four music department groups—Women's Glee Club, Men's Glee Club, Collegions, and marching band,—can get together.

If you're a guest of a member of one of these four groups, you're invited to go along, too.

Good news! The Bijou will be open again next week.

Club Slates Movie, Dance For Tonight

A movie is scheduled for 7:30 P.M. tonight in the Engineering Auditorium followed by a record dance in the Temporary College Union at 9 P.M. Both of these events are sponsored by the Rally Committee.

A "come as you are" dance, sponsored by the Farm Management Club, will start at 9 P.M. Saturday night in the gym. Collegians will furnish music.

Judging Team Wins Honors at Fresno

Cal Poly's livestock judging team aspirants completed a second intercollegiate workout last week at the Fresno District Fair where they were joined by Fresno State and the Kellogg campus.

Dave Rickensrud of San Luis Obispo took first place in overall placing of beef, sheep, and swine classes while another SLO resident George Ross, Jr., took second by two points. Third place ranking went to Jake Reed of Elko, Nevada.

The swine division of the contest was won by Mervyn Becker, Hayward, with a perfect score for the five classes placed. Following Becker's batting of 1000 was Malcolm Kingsley, Ventura, with third ending in a tie between Keith Smith of McFarland and Ross.

First place in the sheep section went to Doug Snyder, Poway, second to Lilla Hunter, Atherton, the only coed trying out for the team, and third to Ross. Kant Whipple, Hiko, Nevada, topped the beef cattle division, with second place going to Rickensrud and third to Ross, giving Ross a consistent day's performance with third place in every division.

Health Center Begin Hearing Tests Monday

Hearing tests for students are now being conducted at the Health Center. All students are required to take a hearing examination once during their college career.

All freshman and other new students who have not had a hearing examination will receive notices through their post office boxes.

Tests will be given Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., including the noon hour. All students receiving hearing test notices are urged to report to the Health Center at their earliest convenience.

Ag Journalist Wins State
4-H Award In Leadership

A former Oakland Tribune copy boy from Concord, now a major in agricultural journalism at Cal Poly, has been selected California's 4-H National Awards Winner in Leadership. He is Leonard Lanfranco, of Concord and a graduate of Mt. Diablo High School. In addition to numerous agricultural and community projects in which he was involved during high school, he was on the Oakland Tribune staff and now is one of five Concord students majoring in agricultural journalism at Cal Poly.

Lanfranco was active in assist-

TO SAY THE LEAST

By Alton Pryor

DEADLINE TIME is approaching and it's high time To Say The Least goes to print. Sure been a dull week, not much to write about; wonder if Editor DePalma might help me with a topic. Guess I'll ask her, "Marge, got any ideas on wha . . . ?"

"No, I don't have a topic for that stinking column, and put a little life into it for a change," DePalma screamed sweetly, sweeping several news contributions into her circular file.

"Yeah, and keep it clean or out it goes. We've had about enough of this keyhole kapers kick you're on." This voice, I was sure I recognized. I looked up. Yep, there he was, dear Advisor "Rock" Healey, snawing on the telephone cord.

"Mr. Healey," I said, "you're mangling the phone cord." He snarled.

The phone rang. Healey bit the cord in two. We'll always hope it was just a wrong number.

A printer stormed in. "Don't you guys ever get anything right. This copy is all fouled up," he blared, as only a printer can blare.

"Maybe it's a foul story," I snickered.

DePalma screamed sweetly; Healey snarled; the printer bit me.

Column competitor Dave Green, of "Green Light" fame on Tuesdays, called from his desk across the room. "Why don't you answer that Dear Judith tripe I've been getting? Here's her number, if you want to call her."

I hurried to the phone and dialed. It dialed on my finger. Healey snarled. I had dialed with my finger in his eye. There was no answer. DePalma screamed sweetly. She had swept the rewritten copy into the circular file and given the blaring printer the fouled copy.

I dialed again. The phone was dead. I remembered Healey had bitten the cord in two. Dave Green called from his desk across the room.

"I have her letter, too, why don't you just answer it?"

The clock said 11:55 a.m. I grabbed the letter and started writing:

DEAR JUDITH . . . If that nasty Dave Green won't answer your personal problems in his "Green Light" column on Tuesdays, bring them to To Say The Least, running on Friday. As for your problem, I would suggest that you forget this man. Join the AAA and never, never, never hold hands in a movie again. You can easily see where such sociabilities can lead, especially at a college containing cowboys.

The last I heard was Healey snarling; DePalma screaming sweetly; and the clock striking deadlines. I rushed my copy to the blaring printer. He blared. I snarled at him.

And that is how I "May The Least."

Jorgensen Releases Casaba Schedule

A lack of height and experience on the 1957-58 edition of the Mustang basketball squad is evident, as its casaba prospects are currently engaged in seeking a position on Coach Ed Jorgensen's squad.

Although Jorgensen has five of last year's regulars back for action this winter, a severe shortage of height and experienced personnel face the Mustang mentor. Big Theo Dunn, new all-time Poly season scoring leader, Len Oswald, Mike Simmons, Ed Krienke, and Flemen Hardy—all veterans—are back, but team depth still concerns the Poly coach.

The basketballers began workouts Oct. 15, and Jorgensen mentioned several candidates showing well. These include Richard Russell, Vic Di Gionanni, Jim Webster, and Jack Medrano. The green and gold headman said he was expecting a few football players to also try-out for the squad.

A rugged 28 game schedule faces Jorgensen's cagers. The Mustangs travel to the Redlands Invitational Tourney, December 3-4-7, and stage the Cal Poly Christmas Tournament, Dec. 27 and 28.

A two-game tour to the University of New Mexico and University of Arizona Dec. 14 and 17, opens the season's regular play. The Poly quint will host Kent University of Akron, Ohio, at Santa Maria on Dec. 20. Bill Berkta, Hancock College of Santa Maria coach last year, is tutoring the highly regarded Kent crew this season.

The schedule:

December	Redlands Tourney	There

Cross Country Men Oppose Powerful Gauchos Tomorrow

Making a habit of running into talented opposition, Coach Jim Jensen's Mustang cross country crew hosts the powerful Santa Barbara Gauchos tomorrow afternoon. Starting time for the 2.9 mile race is set for 4 p.m.

Last Saturday, the visiting Fresno State Bulldogs defeated the Poly squad 17 to 38. Fresno's John Foreman set a new local track record by covering the distance in 14 minutes 25 seconds. The old mark was 15 minutes flat. Foreman and Jack Wilson, FSC's one-two punch in the CCAA mile and two mile runs, paced the Bulldogs to victory.

Jack Wofford and Jack Arnold will head the Mustangs tomorrow afternoon against Santa Barbara. Both ran well last week-end.

Hancock Bulldogs Entertain Colts In Homecoming Tilt

Winners over the San Jose State Frosh, 20-14, the Poly Colts travel to Santa Maria tomorrow night where they will tangle with the formidable Hancock College Bulldogs. Game time is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Coach Tom Lee's freshmen will be out for win number two of the season, intent on disrupting Hancock's Homecoming. Besides the SJC triumph, the Colts hold a 12-12 tie with Fresno State Bulldogs. Showing well against San Jose, and scheduled for much action tomorrow night are end Jim Sweeney, fullback Walt Ramassini, center Jerry Peterson, and quarterback Dale Rogers.

The Hancock eleven is abetted by several of Santa Maria High's top performers from last Fall. Lee opined that the tilt would be one of the roughest of the Colts' four game slate.

Probable starting lineup for the Poly freshmen: Sweeney and Jim Ramsey, ends; tackles Wayne Womer and Dan Nunes; John Lillis and Don Tessier, guards; center Jerry Peterson, quarterback, Rogers, and Walt Ramassini. Lee said he would start Terry Zimmerman at left half, and either Bill Martini or Bill Wohlford at the other spot.

Mustang Mermen Look For Second Victory

Looking for their second win of the season, Coach Dick Anderson's Mustang water polo squad hosts the powerful Santa Barbara Gauchos splashers tomorrow afternoon. Starting time is set for 8 p.m. in the Poly pool.

The green and golders boast a victory over Fullerton College. Losses were to Long Beach State, College of Pacific, and University of California.

Admission is free to the contest.

Clarification

A clarification in homecoming rules for coeds have been announced by Dean Everett Chandler. The rule which ran in Tuesday's edition of El Mustang read: "Students are reminded that any off-campus group not recognized by the college and sponsoring a dance or a party is definitely off-limits for coeds."

The rule should have read: Students are reminded that any dance or party held in THE RESIDENCE of an off-campus organization, which is not recognized by the college, is definitely off-limits for coeds.

More than 8600 naval aviation cadets were trained on the Cal Poly campus at the United States Naval Flight Preparatory school, January, 1948 to November, 1948.

Twenty-Three Man Turnout Greets JV Coach, Gomes

Twenty-three candidates turned out for the Mustang Jayvee wrestling squad, which began workouts earlier this week. Norm Gomes, a senior DH major and last year's outstanding varsity wrestler, will coach the team.

Of the 23 aspirants, five have gained acclaim in State prep wrestling circles. Two Madera standouts—John Lillis and Clarence Yelleriggi—are expected to give the jayvees added strength. Lillis was the 167 pound Northern California champion last year. Yelleriggi won the Valley championship and missed the Northern Cal eliminations because of an injury. His understudy went on to take the 147 pound championship.

Lonnie Harwell, 191 pounds, took the conference championship while at Hanford High. He will team with Pat McCullough, 167 pounder from Arroyo Grande, to bolster the squad's upper weight BLO County conference championship division. McCullough gained the ship last season.

The squad will compete against competition as Modesto JC, College of Sequoias, Fresno JC, and the San Jose State Frosh. Tournaments with high schools are in the offing, Gomes said. The team will also participate in the San Jose Invitational meet in mid-November.

Judging Team First In Dairy Products

Cal Poly placed first in the Regional Dairy Products Judging Contest held at Davis Saturday. Clarence Otsuka placed as the high individual in the contest with Bob Abacherli coming in third.

Among the divisions of products judged, Cal Poly's milk team took first place honors with Abacherli, Otsuka, and J. Harvey Smith, judging.

Other teams placing in the contest were Oregon State, second; Washington State, third; University of Idaho, fourth; Utah State, fifth; Arizona State, sixth; Fresno State, seventh, and University of California, eighth.

The first baccalaureate exercises were held in 1948 at Cal Poly.

Bulletin

Saturday's postponed game between the UCSB Gauchos and the Cal Poly Mustangs will be played Thanksgiving Day, Athletic Director Leroy B. Hughes announced late this week.

Downed by the flu-bug, the Gauchos were not capable of a "representative game," hence the postponement. Time of the contest has not been set, pending final arrangements between the schools.
